II. School of Darshanshastra & its Departments

a) About the School

The inception of the Darshan (Philosophy) School was driven by a vision to foster elevated knowledge in the realm of traditional Indian philosophy, as elucidated by ancient scholars and enshrined in the Shastras. SLBSNS University distinguishes itself by offering a more focused and profound exploration of prominent philosophical systems within specialized disciplines of Indian philosophy, surpassing the generalized teaching-learning facilities provided by traditional universities. Noteworthy is the Jain Darshan department, which, while sharing commonalities with Hindu philosophy, possesses its distinct characteristics. In today's modern world, concepts such as atomic theory, karmic theory, Anekantvad theory, Syadvad theory, Nayavad theory, Ahinsa theory, spirituality, meditation methods, and nonviolence find practical applications in society and the nation.

Additionally, the Mimamsa department has garnered national acclaim for specific judgments rendered under Mimamsa's interpretative norms, focusing on equipping students with the skills to address contemporary issues using ancient texts. Sankhya and Yoga, while complementary, explore concepts of Prakriti (matter) and Purusha. Sankhya's ancient tradition, rooted in the notions of satva-rajaa and thamas, is intriguingly linked to Newton's laws of motion and inspires an understanding of quantum physics. Renowned faculty members guide students through engaging Shastrathas, stimulating discussions on key philosophical issues.

Shrautyagyshala

As we all know that the basis of all religions is the Vedas which propound religion through karma and knowledge. The path of karma in these is in the form of Yagya Dharma.

Most of the Vedas propound this Yagya Vidya. All these Yagya experiments are scientific experiments. Ancient Rishi-scientists used to do various Yagya experiments for the welfare of mankind. Just as the scientists of today use some laboratory to do various experiments, similarly those ancient Rishi-scientists also used Yagshalas to do these scientific Yagya experiments. Therefore, to do various Yagya experiments, the Yagshalas are also designed according to the same purpose. Some of the Yags have to be done by the Ahitaagniyaman throughout his life. For such Yags, a permanent Yagshala has been prescribed, like this Ishtiyagavihar. In this Vihar, the Yagyas that are to be performed lifelong for the Agnihotri Yajaman can be performed such as Nitya Sayam-Prataragnihotra, Darshapoomamaseshtiyag, Aagryaneshtiyag etc. Since this altar is the basis of Yagyaya Karma, whenever we have to do Yagya-related rituals or studies, it is impossible without such an altar. Understanding the necessity of this altar, the Honorable Vice Chancellor Prof. Murlimanohar Pathak has built a Shrouta Yagyashaala named "Shruteshtiyag Vihar" in the campus of the university for the students of the Veda department to study Shrouta Yagya rituals, which is built according to Katyayan Shroutasutra.
